We must be educated & informed.

- More than response to our “bad behavior”
- Offer services more than once & provide opportunities for youth-initiated services.
- We need grief services, peer based education and outreach along with alternatives to traditional therapy. Help us reconcile our past.
- Provide specific and inclusive supports for LGBTQ+ youth and other special populations.
- Support mental health while we transition:
  - Continuity of health services - including mental health as we transition
  - All youth should be supported regardless of how they are “externally” coping.

Curb over-reliance on medication

- Often ‘first fix’ is medication when we start to exhibit issues due to trauma. We need trauma-informed services, not medication only.

- Part of curbing the over-reliance of medication is to ensure informed consent and have an established and independent appeal process available to youth with a medication regimen (especially while the regimen is being considered regardless of whether the medication is over the counter or prescribed including off label use).

Beyond Mental Health - Family & Community

- Substance misuse and mental health crises are tearing our families apart—treat them with the urgency and resources that they require.
- Engage with us during the investigation and when developing prevention services for my family.
- Recognize the importance of preserving healthy family ties,
- Create opportunities for us to access mentors, and
- Involve us in community-based and culturally inclusive services and activities.
- Make sure we have access to and can retain our community, family, and cultural connections.
